INFORMATICS FELLOWS. LEADING WITH DISTINCTION.

2027 ACMI Retreat Sponsorship Prospectus

February 4–7, 2027 | Phoenix, Arizona

American College of Medical Informatics (ACMI)

ACMI is a distinguished community of leading informaticians who collaborate to shape the future of informatics—driving dialogue on emerging and transformative issues, authoring influential work, mentoring the next generation, and contributing to the ongoing evolution of the discipline. Though fellowship honors individual accomplishments, ACMI functions primarily as a working college, enriched by diverse viewpoints and a collaborative ethos.

Fellows of ACMI

ACMI Fellows are senior level thought leaders and key decision makers or influencers of decision makers. These individuals have made significant and sustained contributions in biomedical and health informatics, have achieved national recognition in the field, and are committed to advancing the charitable, scientific, literary, and educational purposes of ACMI.

Each year, new Fellows are elected by the voting members of ACMI. Fellows, who use the designation "FACMI," are elected for life and are inducted at a ceremonial dinner at the AMIA Annual Symposium in November. The current 310 voting ACMI Fellows are recognized in the online Fellows of ACMI Directory.

ACMI Annual Retreat

The ACMI Annual Retreat is the premier gathering of the nation's most distinguished medical informatics leaders, scholars, and innovators. Each year, approximately 75+ elected ACMI Fellows convene to engage in forward-looking dialogue, exchange insights, and collaborate on shaping the future of biomedical and health informatics.

The Retreat is designed as an intimate, high-level forum that fosters collaboration, thought leadership, and candid discussion of the most pressing challenges and transformative opportunities in healthcare. Programming features panel discussions, presentations, interactive sessions, and strategic discussions aligned with ACMI's mission to advance informatics for the improvement of health and healthcare delivery.

The theme of the 2027 Retreat is Informatics for All: Broadening Who Builds, Benefits, and Belongs, examining how informatics can better support groups, communities, and care settings that have historically lacked resources, representation, or access to digital innovation. Participants will explore how informatics can advance health and well-being in communities that face barriers to accessing resources, services, opportunities, or technology. Discussions will consider a wide range of community contexts and organizational settings, recognizing that needs and challenges vary across populations and regions.

Retreat topics may include:

- Artificial Intelligence and digital health in under-resourced care environments
- Informatics in rural, frontier, urban underserved, public health, safety-net, and federally qualified health center settings
- Community-engaged design, implementation, and evaluation
- Data quality and representation for populations whose experiences may be poorly captured in current systems
- Workforce development and expanded pathways into informatics for diverse health professionals and community members
- Data sovereignty, indigenous data governance, and community control of data
- Sustainable partnerships, trust, and shared benefit
- Policy, financial, ethical, and operational barriers to equitable innovation
